REGISTRY SEARCH

2. Trade Marks Registry search

Result	No identical or confusingly similar mark found
Searched by	HMRA team, 04 Oct 2026
Findings	Word and phonetic search in classes 9, 35 and 42. No identical mark found. Two marks with a different first syllable were reviewed and are unlikely to conflict. (Sample findings.)

3. Distinctiveness check

Inherent distinctiveness of the word itself: High. We checked it against rules the Registry applies when examining an application: whether it is descriptive or laudatory, geographical, restricted by law, religiously sensitive, or close to a well-known brand. This is separate from the registry search above: a highly distinctive name can still be refused if someone else already owns it.

Check	Finding	Risk
No red flags in the word itself	The mark does not contain common laudatory, geographical, descriptive, restricted or well-known terms from our lists, so it is likely to be inherently distinctive. This check does not show whether someone else has already applied for or registered the same or a similar name; the registry search covers that.	Clear

4. Classes to consider

Class	Covers	Basis
Class 35	Advertising, business and retail services	Suggested from your description
Class 9	Electronics, software and apps	Suggested from your description
Class 42	IT, software and technology services	Suggested from your description

Goods and services are grouped into 45 classes under the Nice Classification (classes 1 to 34 for goods, 35 to 45 for services). A registration protects the mark only in the classes filed, so file in every class that covers your current and planned business. Our team will confirm the final list.

5. Government fees and timeline

Item	Detail
Filing fee (Form TM-A, e-filing)	Rs. 4,500 per class for individuals, startups and small enterprises (Rs. 9,000 for other applicants). Estimated for 3 classes: Rs. 13,500. Professional fees are extra.
After filing	You can use the TM symbol immediately. The Registry examines the application and may issue an examination report, which must be answered within 30 days.
Advertisement	Once accepted, the mark is advertised in the Trade Marks Journal. Anyone may oppose it within four months.
Registration	If there is no opposition (or it is decided in your favour), the mark is registered. You may then use the (R) symbol. Using (R) before registration is an offence.
Validity	10 years from the application date, renewable every 10 years indefinitely.

6. Documents checklist

- Applicant's name, address and nationality (for a company or LLP, the registered name and address)
- Clear description of goods or services, and the classes
- Logo in JPG format (for logo or word-with-logo marks)
- Signed Form TM-48 (authorisation for the attorney or agent filing for you)
- If you start using the mark before filing, keep dated evidence of use
- Udyam (MSME) registration or DPIIT startup recognition certificate, to claim the lower fee

7. What happens next

The search did not find a conflicting mark. We can prepare and file your application, usually within two working days of receiving the documents above.

Important: The distinctiveness check is automated and based only on the information you provided. The registry search is a preliminary search of the Trade Marks Registry as on the search date; new applications can appear later, and the Registry's own examination may differ. This report is not legal advice. Fees and procedures are as understood in October 2026 and may change.
